

Shift displacement: the dominant overtime mechanism

Displaced cases finish on time or early. They run into a later shift because upstream delays pushed them across the shift boundary.